

The Rock Star (WOW Style)

The Rock Star looks down from his social throne upon those less fortunate, but he doesn't look down on them.

He has so many masterful ways to display social proof that he eventually becomes walking social proof himself, and his mere presence becomes a projection of a person with a level of value that can be rivaled by very few.

Even though the Rock Star can technically be labeled as an "attention whore", his success with women dwarfs any negative impact the label could have on his image.

The Rock Star makes picking up women look too easy.

Allow me to introduce the master of social value, the Rock Star.

The Rock Star knows exactly what to do in any given social setting in order to draw the spotlight towards himself and keep all eyes on him. His main goals are all orbiting around, and come secondary to, his need to be viewed highly and respected by others. Even though he knows better than to appear needy, the Rock Star is always seeking attention, as it is the fuel that drives him towards success. Unlike most people who have natural tendencies to seek out attention from others, the Rock Star make use of strategic methods for doing so which actually raise his value in the eyes of others, rather than lowering it as normal attention seeking behavior would. If you didn't know any better, you'd think he wasn't seeking attention at all!

The Rock Star is a show-off, and he takes great joy in this. However, he flaunts himself through his actions only, never with his words; he knows that talk is cheap.

Wherever the Rock Star travels, he can be found center-stage in the midst of whatever is the most exciting, loud, attention grabbing activity currently going on. In most cases, these upbeat activities are started by the Rock Star himself just to draw attention to himself. However, many of those who are fond of this style are also natural entertainers by nature, so they may have alternative reasons for starting up a group activity and allowing others to participate.

This style is far from being the most technical that we have developed, and it doesn't take a brain surgeon to pull it off successfully. However, this style can typically only be used by those with certain personality types, as there are a few prerequisites that prevent the more timid from getting the most out of a style based so primarily upon social proof and value. This style takes balls and the ability to handle all eyes being on you; those with any form of stage fright should avoid using this style until you have purged that fear from your mind completely.

Men who naturally enjoy conversation, high amounts of social interaction and large crowds will do exceptionally well when using this WOW style, while those who prefer a more discreet approach and to stay in the shadows will struggle with it.

The Rock Star is best suited for highly extroverted, confident men.

On the surface the Rock Star appears to care little about what others think of him, and it is this very attitude that given him success in life and with women. However, deep beneath the surface, the Rock Star's passion is to have others admire him and hold him in the highest regard, which he ultimately achieves by concealing his true intentions.

To others it simply appears as if the Rock Star just wants to have a good time, nothing more.

One thing that you may notice while learning this style is that the Rock Star's game appears to "simmer down" as it progresses through the WOW System. This is true, but it doesn't mean that the Rock Star is bad for closing or end-game, it's just that the Rock Star style is so strong during the first few stages that the social value generated during those stages echoes on later and basically "carries" the user through the rest of the system, making later stages a breeze.

Below you will find a step-by-step breakdown of how this style can be used during each stage of the WOW System. Keep in mind that anything below can be modified to your liking to better suit your specific needs.

Stage 1

Techniques used:

- Passive Openers (all types)
- The Chessmaster
- Playboy Club Photographer (optional/circumstantial)

The first stage of the WOW system is where the Rock Star truly shines, and once you get used to using this style, you'll quickly learn that almost all of the "grunt work" that you need to do is done during the first stage. Later on in the system, everything that you do will be a piece of cake if you can properly lay your game down during this first stage.

The Rock Star never old approaches women, it is below him as his ever-present display of massive amounts of social proof award him the luxury of waiting for the women to come to him instead. However, in order for this to happen consistently, the Rock Star must be a master of the use of Passive Openers. This style most benefits from using the Houdini Sets and Man of the Hour Passive Openers simultaneously together.

Since the Rock Star is never supposed to cold approach, to the naked eye starting up Houdini Sets may seem like a contradiction to that concept. However, Houdini Sets are not "real" sets because they do not contain a TOI, thus making them nothing more than a social proofing tool for the Rock Star to use to his benefit. An experienced Rock Star will take further advantage of Houdini Sets by using them to generate Pawns that he'll use for the Chessmaster Technique.

One the Rock Star's Passive Openers have been successful and a new set containing a TOI begins, he will then be able to place one of his pawns into that set, using the Chessmaster technique. This is of course only possible if he has a pawn available at that time.

The Rock Star will also be able to reap the benefits of the Love the Hate and Word of Mouth

Passive Openers. However, this is all done automatically as a byproduct of his social value displays and requires no additional work on his part. Also, the Rock Star will more than likely be able to make good use of any new Passive Openers that we discover and publish in the future, so keep that in mind if you learn any new Passive Openers from our newsletter.

Stage 2

Techniques used:

- Hook Openers (not needed when using the Chessmaster)
- Mail Slam Cam (when going for N-Close)
- TNT: Leech & Robin Hood

Note: The Rock Star completely skips this stage when using the Chessmaster Technique!

How the Rock Star operates during stage two is almost fully governed by what he put into motion during stage 1. For example, a Hook Opener may be necessary during this stage, but only if the set was opened via a Passive Opener (woman approached the Rock Star) and the Rock Star had no pawns to use for the Chessmaster technique. Additionally, if you are using this style and have already decided to end the interaction during stage 3 with an N-Close, the Mail Slam Cam technique can work wonders to help begin that process. During this stage the Rock Star also has the option to make use of The Neg Twins as he sees fit in order to alter and manipulate the social value of those around him to achieve optimal levels for gaming.

Stage 3

Techniques used:

- Branding
- Power Pawning

The Rock Star is accustomed to meeting many new people on a regular basis, which makes him a perfect candidate for becoming as master of the Branding technique. If you are using this style and have not already Branded everyone in the group (or at least just your TOI) during the first two stages, it is highly recommended that you Brand them during stage 3. Also, if the Rock Star is currently engaged in a set that contains a woman of high enough quality to qualify as a potential Power Pawn, during this stage he has the option of ending the current set, turning her into a Power Pawn and using her to his advantage for continuous high social value gains for the rest of that particular outing. At times it may be a tough choice as to whether you should N-Close a beautiful woman or transform her into a Power Pawn, but in most cases a well-chosen Power Pawn can prove to be one of the most powerful seduction tools you could possibly have at your disposal.

You'll just have to give to get. It's a trade-off, and a gamble.

Stage 4

Techniques used:

- Casting Call
- TNT: Leech & Robin Hood

Stage 4 is the Rock Star's "social play time", like the time when he gets to forget about everything else in his game and focus solely on social value manipulation. With that in mind, during this stage the Rock Star should make use of the Casting Call technique (or something similar) in order to solidify himself as the unsaid "leader" of the newly created social group. The Casting Call is the best candidate to achieve this goal because not only does it do that, but it also allows the Rock Star to highly manipulate the value levels of everyone within the group. As you know by now, the Rock Star's forte is to play with value levels, so if you like this style you will most likely really enjoy using the Casting Call technique. Also, as with in stage 2, the Rock Star also has the option to bring out the Neg Twins during this stage to add to the value manipulating tools that are at his disposal. However, that may not always be necessary.

Stage 5

Techniques used:

- Prop, Lock & Drop It
- Houdini Sets

It is during stage 5 that the Rock Star will for the first time actually appear to be doing something on purpose, at least to those smart enough to catch on. However, whether someone notices or not will not make any difference. Once stage 5 begins, the Rock Star will make use of the Prop, Lock & Drop It technique in order to extract a forced XIOI from his TOI. This is important because by doing this it will subconsciously imprint on the TOI's mind that the Rock Star's social value is much higher than her own, thus making her interest levels peak. After the Rock Star hands over his lock-in prop and ejects from the set, he will then need to go do something else in the meantime while waiting for his TOI (and XIOI) to arrive.

The best choice of activity during this waiting period is to simply circle the venue a bit and open some Houdini Sets, which will add additional roaming value to the Rock Star and keep him occupied and looking busy. The last thing you want is to appear to be "waiting around" for your TOI to return with the prop, that just doesn't fit the Rock Star's persona at all.

As soon as the TOI returns the prop and an XIOI has been received, the Rock Star will immediately proceed on to stage 6 or 7. You have the choice to either gain a bit more social value during stage 6 or to skip the stage entirely. In most cases you will want to use stage 6 as it will supply you with a basic level of trust with the group and your TOI. However, at times the Rock Star's overpowering presence is simply enough to plow through straight into stage 7 since he will be admired by the group, which grants him a certain level of automatic trust.

Stage 6

Techniques used:

- Secret Rapport Agent

As was stated in the stage 5 description, you have the choice to either bypass this stage completely or use it to add a bit of value to yourself and create some further trust and rapport with your TOI and/or the group. If you choose to take advantage of this stage, by far the best strategy for getting what you want out of it is to use the Secret Rapport Agent technique. This technique will: generate a high amount of rapport with the group, even further solidify you as being the leader of the group, generate a slight amount of trust with your TOI and allow you to entertain the group as a whole which will raise interest for you and your value.

Note: You can only use the Secret Rapport Agent technique if you are in a group set!

Stage 7

Techniques used:

- Trust, Lust & Close

The Rock Star's nature of being the fun, outgoing, just here to have a good time type of guy slightly conflicts with most techniques that fit into the 7th stage of the WOW System. If a Rock Star were to get all seductive and serious during stage 7, it could possibly make his entire image appear to be a ruse. With that in mind, you will want to spend as little time during stage 7 as possible when using the Rock Star. An experienced Rock Star will use the Trust, Lust & Close technique to quickly escalate his kino with the target and increase her level of trust in him (another reason why stage 6 can be skipped by the Rock Star) and then he will quickly move on to stage 8. Lingering during this stage or changing your attitude into "seductive mode" can be disastrous when using this style, so be careful.

Stage 8

Techniques used:

- Confessions

The high level of admiration at which the Rock Star's TOI should be feeling towards him by this point will make him only encounter a very small amount (if any) or LMR during this stage. However, some women are harder to crack than others and anything can happen. If you are using this style and encounter some LMR, simply use a Confession or two to barrel through her shield and continue moving forward to stage 9.

Stage 9

Stage 9 is pretty self-explanatory, and no additional strategy is needed for this stage. Simply handle your "business" and then choose to either move on to another woman or to venture into a deeper relationship with the one you've just bedded. If you decide to proceed with the current girl, then continue on to stages 10 and 11, if not than this is where the road ends.

Stage 10

Techniques used:

- Me Language
- Status Symbols

The Rock Star's actually performs quite well during stage 10, which is ironic considering that this entire style is tailored towards dealing with groups and large crowds, while stage 10 is conducted on a one-on-one basis with the woman. If it is your forte, you can use Me Language during this stage to great effect, as it will add to your value and give off a "trend-setter" vibe to your woman, confirming her belief that she is dealing with someone who is far cooler than an average guy. In addition to using Me Language, you should definitely implement the use of Status Symbols in order to make sure that your high social standing is properly maintained and never begins to fall into a decline. The most common reason why women get bored with men during a long term relationship is because the men fail to maintain their value.

Stage 11

Techniques used:

- Complete Cycle of Love

Regardless of what style you are using, if it is designed to reach stage 11 you will need to make use of the Complete Cycle of Love. This is because it is simply the most efficient method for making a woman fall in love with you that we have yet to discover. With that said, the Rock Star should also utilize this technique during the final stage of the WOW System.

Note: All of the techniques referred to in this style can be found in their corresponding stage sections within Perfection Outside.